WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW:

- What is a Scout Elf? Santa's most trusted helpers
- What will the Scout Elf do? Find a spot in the hospital to sit, listen, and watch. For a brief time at night, the elf will fly to Santa at North Pole and tell him all the nice things our staff members have been doing. On average, an Elf travels 4,000 miles to the North Pole each night, and can fly faster than an airplane. Elves then slip back during the night to a different spot to continue the mission of taking notes for the naughty or nice list.
- How old are Scout Elves? Most have been around since the beginning of Christmas.
- When will the Scout Elf arrive? Arriving Monday, Dec. 3.
- How long will the Elf stay? All Elves fly back to Santa on Christmas Eve.
- What does an Elf look like? Scout Elves always wear their signature red and white uniform.
- Where might an Elf hide? To be respectful of our patients and their privacy, we have asked Santa to direct his Scout Elf to sit inside the hospital, CIC and Materials buildings in areas open to the public, and to go no further than the front entrance areas of hospital departments. Elves are not permitted in patient rooms or in restrooms.
- May I touch the Elf? Christmas magic is just that... magical. Elves can lose their magic if touched. Please do not touch the Elf.
- May I take an Elfie Selfie? YES, YES AND YES! Shhhhhh... hhhh... If you are the lucky person to find where the Elf has landed for that day, quickly snap a selfie with you and Elfie identifying the area you found Elf, and email to lstebelton@hvch.org; or print a copy and drop off in Community Relations. Keep the location of where you found the Elf a secret. Upon receipt of your photo, your name will be placed in a daily drawing to win a Christmas prize! One prize winner per day. Note: Submission of photos and videos gives Hocking Valley Community Hospital sole permission to publish photos on social media, website, print and use in marketing materials.
- Extra Notes, Extra Chances to Win Prizes! Elves LOOOOOVE Christmas Carols. To earn extra chances to win prizes, video record you singing to the Elf a Christmas Carol and email to: lstebelton@hvch.org. The more the merrier. Each person in the video will receive an extra chance to win that day's prize, too! Additionally, one extra chance can be earned for creativity of photos. Example: Wear an elf hat or suit; props of various kinds.

LEADING THE WAY TO A HEALTHIER COMMUNITY

DEC. 14, 2018

Weekly Update

HVCH offers SafeSitter course for teens

SAFESITTER

Designed to prepare students in grades 6-8 to be safe when they're home alone, watching younger siblings, or babysitting.

The Instructor-led class is filled with fun games and role-playing exercises. Students even get to use manikins to practice rescue skills like choking rescue and CPR!

Hocking Valley Community Hospital will offer SafeSitter courses for young teens to learn child watching skills.

Any youth grades 6-8 may take the course. It will be held on January 21 at the CIC Professional Building, 541 S.R. 664 N., Suite B, Logan. Registration deadline is January 7.

This course provides hands-on practice in lifesaving techniques to young teens who are home alone, watching younger siblings, or babysitting so they are equipped with the skills and confidence to act in an emergency. They learn basic first aid and infant and child choking rescue and CPR. Students also receive instruction on how a child's age affects how to care for them, how to prevent problem behavior, and how to run their own babysitting business.

More than 600,000 youth have graduated from the medically-accurate program which teaches how, why and where injuries happen so they can be prevented. Students who graduate from a SafeSitter course receive a completion card for demonstrating that they know how to use their skills in situations they encounter.

The cost of the course is $50. Call 740-380-8330 to register. For more information about the SafeSitter organization, contact their national headquarters at (317) 596-5001 or visit www.safesitter.org.

INSPIRATIONAL QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"Christmas is the spirit of giving without a thought of getting. It is happiness because we see joy in people. It is forgetting self and finding time for others. It is discarding the meaningless and stressing the true values."

— Thomas S. Monson

Direct to You: From Lauren Barber

Here we are again, another Christmas coming up and another year in the books.

Lauren Barber,
HR Director

2018 has certainly been a bit of a rollercoaster with many great changes at the hospital.

As I look back on my year, I can see that I've faced a number of challenges, been tested as a professional and senior leader, and had a few wins. I've grown and learned, but I've also developed deeper relationships with many of our directors and employees. HVCH is an amazing place to work and I'd grateful every day for this opportunity.

Being in HR, I get more than enough mushy, sentimental motivational reading materials filling up my inbox. But one of the things that has stuck with me more in the last few years than anything else is about optimism. And that is "The glass can always be refilled."

I consider it to be the pragmatist's view on optimism because a glass is a container that can hold pretty much anything...including air. The trick is understanding that a glass doesn't have to hold just water or any liquid, really. Instead, see the possibility that a glass has the potential to hold ice cream, or nuts and bolts, or dust. This means that you hold the key to your potential and opportunities simply in the way that you view the world.

We are always going to have moments when our glasses are low. This week was a tough one for me, one where I joked that I simply couldn't wait for the weekend. One our wonderful employees said to me "You're wishing your life away." She was absolutely right. Even the exhausting days are an opportunity. Her wisdom definitely refilled my glass in an unexpected way.

As we slide into a new year, I invite you to take a minute to reflect on 2018 and see the ways that you've grown both personally and professionally. Instead of making a resolution for 2019 that you probably won't keep, look for new ways to fill your glass and opportunities to fill the glasses of others.

I wish you all a very merry holiday season!

Thank You!

Hocking Valley Community Hospital would like to thank our 2018 board members for their service.

HEALTH TOPICS

(Y)east Infections

Overview

A vaginal yeast infection is a fungal infection that causes irritation, discharge and intense itchiness of the vagina and vulva. Also called vaginal candidiasis, vaginal yeast infection affects up to three out of four women at some point in their life, and for some, they experience at least two episodes. A vaginal yeast infection isn't considered a sexually transmitted infection. But, there's an increased risk of vaginal yeast infection at the time of first regular sexual activity. Yeast infections can effectively be treated by medications. If you have recurrent yeast infections — four or more within a year — you may need a longer treatment course and maintenance plan.

Roy Davis,
Director of Growth and Business Development

Symptoms

Yeast infection symptoms can range from mild to moderate, and include:

- Itching and irritation in the vagina and vulva
- A burning sensation, especially during intercourse or while urinating
- Redness and swelling of the vulva
- Vaginal pain and soreness
- Vaginal rash
- Thick, white, odor-free vaginal discharge
- Watery vaginal discharge

Complicated yeast infection

You might have a complicated yeast infection if:

- You have severe signs and symptoms, such as extensive redness, swelling and itching that leads to tears, cracks or sores
- You have four or more yeast infections in a year
- Your infection is caused by a less typical type of fungus
- You're pregnant
- You have uncontrolled diabetes
- Your immune system is weakened because of certain medications or conditions such as HIV infection

When to see a doctor

Make an appointment with your doctor if:

- This is the first time you've had yeast infection symptoms
- You're not sure whether you have a yeast infection
- Your symptoms aren't relieved after treating with over-the-counter antifungal vaginal creams or suppositories
- You develop other symptoms

Causes

The fungus candida albicans is responsible for most vaginal yeast infections. The vagina naturally contains a balanced mix of yeast, including candida, and bacteria. Certain bacteria (lactobacillus) act to prevent an overgrowth of yeast, but that balance can be disrupted due to many things. An overgrowth of candida or penetration of the fungus into deeper vaginal cell layers causes the signs and symptoms of a yeast infection.

Overgrowth of yeast can result from:

- Antibiotic use, which causes an imbalance in natural vaginal flora
- Pregnancy
- Uncontrolled diabetes
- An impaired immune system
- Taking oral contraceptives or hormone therapy that increases estrogen levels

Candida albicans is the most common type of fungus to cause yeast infections. Yeast infections caused by other types of candida fungus can be more difficult to treat, and generally need more-aggressive therapies.

Prevention

To reduce your risk of vaginal yeast infections, wear underwear that has a cotton crotch and doesn't fit too tightly. It might also help to avoid: Tight-fitting pantyhose, douching which removes some of the normal bacteria in the vagina that protect you from infection; scented feminine products, including bubble bath, pads and tampons; hot tubs and very hot baths, unnecessary antibiotic use such as for colds or other viral infections; staying in wet clothes such as swimsuits and workout attire, for long periods of time.

If you've been treated for a yeast infection in the past, your practitioner may simply prescribe a treatment plan over the phone. Otherwise, you're likely to see a family medicine provider or gynecologist. For more information or to see a family care provider, please call 740-380-0202.
